

IS MANAGING YOUR MOBILITY COSTS OUT OF CONTROL?

Mobility spend is one of the most unpredictable costs companies struggle to effectively manage. If you don't know why your costs have spiked, are unsure if you're paying for unused lines, confused if you're up to date on your carrier plans and wondering why your highly paid internal IT resources are performing time-consuming mundane tasks, like reviewing each cellphone bill, then it's time to consider Partner-Led Telecom Expense Management (TEM) Services.

Going IT Alone

Using your internal resources to manage your fleet of mobile devices, especially the spend that goes along with it, involves:

- Almost every department and cost center within your organization, taking needed resources away from more important projects
- An average monthly cost of between $12.50-$15.00 per line which can quickly add up
- Utilizing manual and ad-hoc processes for analyzing usage and behavioral data which is completely inefficient
- Sharing information via one-off texts, emails or verbally in passing without any audit metrics to ensure follow-up or resolution

It's no wonder your costs are out of control. It's inevitable when you go it alone

Managing Your Cellphone Fleet Has Never Been Easier

Partnering with an experienced mobility management services provider, like AOS Mobile Technologies, enables you to streamline your TEM process and reap the benefits of effective and efficient mobility spending throughout your organization. AOS Clear Cost is a Telecom Expense Management service that allows your organization to lower costs, simplify information distribution and streamline operations.
